HIGH LINE FISHERS.

Sch. Priscilla Leads Red Snapper Fleet at Pensacola.

Sch. Cavale, Capt. Frank Cooney, is a Close Second.

A letter to the Times from Pensacola, Florida, says that this month practically winds up the red snapper fishery at that port for the season, after a very profitable year. The letter says that the high line of the fleet is sch. Priscilla, Capt. Augustus McIntire, with sch. Cavale, Capt. Frank Cooney, a close second.

Capt. Cooney was compelled to remain ashore a number of trips the past summer, to undergo an operation, but since joining his vessel again, in August, has been making some record breaking trips. On his recent trip he made the largest stock ever made out of Pensacola, on a Campeche bank trip.

Capt. Cooney is a former Gloucester boy and is well remembered here. It is pleasing to note his continued success in the southern fishery.

Sch. Agnes V. Gleason, 5000 pollock.

FROM BAY OF ISLANDS.

Capt. Carl C. Young Brings Home the Latest News.

Herring Scarcer Than Ever Before at This Time.

A letter to the Times from one of the skippers at Bay of Islands, N. F., dated Monday, says that several vessels are now on the way for here and Halifax, N. S., with full cargoes of salt herring. Mild weather prevails and there is no indication of frost. For the past few days herring have been scarce, in fact at no time this season has there been a large body of herring in the bay.

Capt. Carl C. Young, who has been at Bay of Islands, N. F., during the past six weeks, superintending the loading of his schs. Dauntless and W. E. Morrissey, arrived home yesterday, coming by rail and boat.

Capt. Young confirms the news published from time to time in the Daily Times regarding the situation there. He says that the fishing has been very "spotty." On some days good hauls would be made, while suddenly the fish would disappear and there would be nothing doing.

In no season, Capt. Young says has he seen herring scarcer at Bay of Islands than they were when he left on Monday, and this is about the time when the season should be in full swing.

Several of the fleet are on the way home with salt herring cargoes, among them schs. Tattler, W. E. Morrissey, Dauntless, Alert, Dora A. Lawson, Bohemia, S. P. Willard, Judique, Avalon, Valkyrie and Maxine Elliott. Sch. Orinoco is also coming with a cargo of artificially frozen herring.

The salt herring season was practically over when he left and all the vessels that remained were putting on their scaffolds or had them already on, ready for frost to strike to begin freezing. A few of the vessels at the Bay had part of a fare of salt herring and were waiting to finish up with frozen, among these being schs. Aethusa, Arkona, Saladin, Arcadia and Ralph L. Hall of this port, and William Matheson of Bucksport, Me.

Throughout the whole season there had been no sign of frost excepting a slight touch last Thursday night. But very few herring were put on the scaffolds and only two vessels the British schs. Mary W. S. and Ethel, the latter under charter to Capt. George Turner of this port, secured fish, each of which froze 200 barrels.

A dispatch from Bay of Islands, N. F., received here yesterday, reports still no frost and herring scarce.

ABOUT OVER NOW.

Shore Pollock Fleet Lands 10,000,000 Pounds This Fall.

The fall pollock season is about over and but few vessels are still following this branch of the fishery. What few are keeping at it are getting small fares and running them to market at Boston. Most of the boats engaged have now hauled up or have fitted for cod netting or shore fishing. Last year the season came to a close at about this same time.

The catch has been a phenomenal one, no less than 100,000,000 pounds of the kind of fish having landed here since the fall season started. This has been exceeded but once in a great many years, so the season has been a most successful one.

STILL NO FROST.

Many Vessels Patiently Waiting at Bay of Islands, N. F.

Telegrams this morning from Bay of Islands N. F., say "still no frost." A large fleet of vessels are waiting for frozen cargoes and at last reports all were in the Middle Arm, not a vessel having been to North Arm.
